

AMENDMENTS TO THE CLAIMS

1. (Currently Amended) A retail display accessory for assisting a consumer in color coordinating a first article of clothing with a second article of clothing, the accessory comprising:

a body section that is constructed to be carried by the first article of clothing, the body section having a first indicia section identifying a predominant color of the first article of clothing and a second indicia section that identifies colors for the second article of clothing that are complementary to the color of the first article of clothing, wherein the predominant color is represented by a printed swash of color in the first indicia section to permit easy identification of which first article of clothing is intended for use with the retail display accessory and permit the colors in the second indicia section to be selected specifically in view of the color of the printed swash.
2. (Currently Amended) The retail display accessory of claim [[1]] 4, wherein the first article of clothing is a tie and the second article of clothing is a shirt.
3. (Currently Amended) The retail display accessory of claim [[1]] 4, wherein the body section is formed of a paper material and includes a space formed between a front section and a rear section which receives the first article of clothing so that the body section is disposed around a portion of the first article of clothing.
4. (Currently Amended) A retail display accessory for assisting a consumer in color coordinating a first article of clothing with a second article of clothing, the accessory comprising:

a body section that is constructed to be carried by the first article of clothing, the body section having a first indicia section identifying a predominant color of the first article of clothing and a second indicia section that identifies colors for the second article of clothing that are complementary to the color of the first article of clothing ~~The retail display accessory of claim 1,~~ wherein the body section includes a tab that extends outwardly from a base section with the first indicia section being formed on one face of the tab.

5. (Original) The retail display accessory of claim 4, wherein the second indicia section is formed on one face of the base section.
6. (Currently Amended) The retail display accessory of claim ~~[[1]]~~ 4, wherein the body section is formed of a blank that includes two fold lines that partition the blank into two end sections and an intermediate section formed therebetween.
7. (Original) The retail display accessory of claim 6, wherein the blank is folded along the two fold lines so that one end of one end section is brought into contact with one face of the other end section.
8. (Original) The retail display accessory of claim 7, wherein the one end section is adhered to the other end section with a glue material.
9. (Original) The retail display accessory of claim 6, wherein the body section includes a top edge and an opposing lower edge with a tab extending outwardly from one of the top edge and the bottom edge, the first indicia section being formed on one face of the tab.

10. (Currently Amended) The retail display accessory of claim ~~[[1]]~~ 4, wherein indicia for each of the complementary colors represents a predominant color of the second article of clothing.
11. (Currently Amended) The retail display accessory of claim ~~[[1]]~~ 4, wherein the second indicia section includes a plurality of color indicators, each color indicator representing one color that is complementary to the predominant color of the first article of clothing.
12. (Original) The retail display accessory of claim 11, wherein the color indicator is a bounded area that contains one printed color therein.
13. (Canceled)
14. (Currently Amended) A retail display accessory for assisting a consumer in color coordinating a first article of clothing with a second article of clothing, the accessory comprising:
a body section that is constructed to be carried by the first article of clothing, the body section having a first indicia section identifying a predominant color of the first article of clothing and a second indicia section that identifies colors for the second article of clothing that are complementary to the color of the first article of clothing ~~The retail display accessory of claim 1,~~ wherein the predominant color of the first article of clothing is identified by text written in the first indicia section.
15. (Canceled)

that identifies second characteristics for the second article of clothing that are complementary to the first characteristic of the first article of clothing.

31. (Original) The accessory of claim 30, wherein the first characteristic comprises a predominant color of the first article of clothing and the second characteristics comprise complementary colors that result in color coordination between the first and second articles of clothing.

32. (Canceled)

33. (Canceled)

34. (Canceled)

35. ~~[[34.]]~~ (Canceled)